Castillo de Almansa Albacete

Old Dam in Almansa

Located to the south-east of the province of Albacete, this area is a crossroads between the central plateau (Meseta) and the Mediterranean, enjoying characteristics from both areas. The climate is semi-arid, characteristic of the edge of the central plateau and rainfall is scarce.

Although, traditionally, the wines of this region were sold in bulk, in the last few years, there has been a noted rise in interest for these wines which have experimented with the local grape varieties: Garnacha Tintorera and Monastrell (Mourvèdre). These “new” wines of the Almansa wine appellation are attracting attention abroad and are starting to appear on the national and international great wine lists.
